SUBJECT:

FBIS Collection Guidance No. 82-10 on Energy Economics

[Redacted]

25X1

1. This memorandum forwards to you updated collection guidance on energy economics, designated as FBIS Collection Guidance No. 82-10 for internal control purposes. This also rescinds FBIS Collection Guidance No. 81-01 dated 2 January 1981 on the same subject. In revalidating and updating this guidance, the Chief of the Energy Issues Branch of the Strategic Resources Division, Office of Global Issues, advised that his division has observed an "outstanding response" by FBIS to this guidance and hopes the "flow of timely and relevant energy articles will continue." The subjects listed under Topics of Current Interest in the attached guidance reflect the division's research program for the coming year.

2. Since FBIS' current resources will not permit it to respond fully to all of the attached topics of interest as requirements and since the consumer is satisfied with the current level of collection, FBIS will continue to accept these topics as collection guidance rather than a collection requirement. The attached list is unclassified and can be issued to monitors and JPRS contractors; only the reference to the originator of the guidance is classified.
